The International Yeats Society is an academic organisation linking national and other Yeats societies around the world. It aims to

- allow a wide range of academic researchers to share and present their work, in progress as well as in finished form;
- make that work widely and easily available;
- facilitate communication amongst scholars, teachers, and postgraduate students;
- foster productive teams of researchers, especially across national borders;
- advance awareness of Yeats studies in wider academic and public communities; and
- promote the study of Yeats as well as Irish literature and culture, in a global context.
